1515 In nomine domini Amen

Fragment of an ancient papyrus scroll with several lines of handwritten text in a cursive script, likely from the Greco-Roman period. The text is written in dark ink on a heavily aged, brown, and frayed surface. The script is dense and difficult to decipher, but appears to be a form of Greek or Latin. The fragment is held in place by clear adhesive tape on the left and right edges.
