

Fragment of an ancient papyrus scroll with several lines of handwritten text in a cursive script, likely from the Greco-Roman period. The text is written in dark ink on a heavily textured, brownish-gold surface. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to the fragment's condition and the cursive nature of the writing. The fragment is rectangular with irregular, frayed edges and several small holes, possibly from insect damage or wear. The background is a plain, light-colored surface.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript, written on aged, stained parchment. The text is arranged in several lines across the page, though the characters are difficult to decipher due to the script and the condition of the document. The parchment is heavily discolored and shows signs of significant wear and tear, including numerous holes and irregular edges.

Handwritten text in a cursive script on aged, stained paper. The text is arranged in approximately five lines, though it is significantly obscured by ink bleed-through from the reverse side of the document. The paper is heavily discolored and shows signs of significant wear and tear, including numerous holes and irregular edges.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pahlavi, on a fragment of aged parchment. The text is arranged in approximately seven horizontal lines across the length of the strip. The script is dense and cursive, with some characters appearing to be ligatures. The parchment is heavily stained and shows signs of significant wear and tear, particularly along the edges and in the center where there is a vertical crease or fold. The overall appearance is that of an archaeological find, possibly a fragment of a larger document or a specific type of talisman or magical text.

Vertical text on the left edge of the fragment, possibly a reference number or a date, written in a smaller script.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pahlavi, on a fragment of aged parchment. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the length of the strip. The script is dense and cursive, with some characters appearing to be ligatures. The parchment is heavily stained and shows signs of significant wear and tear, particularly along the edges and in the center where there is a vertical crease or fold. The overall appearance is that of an ancient manuscript fragment.

Vertical text on the left edge of the fragment, possibly a marginal note or a reference number.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Indic, on a piece of aged, yellowish-brown paper. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the width of the fragment. The script is dense and cursive, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect than others, possibly indicating a mix of languages or a specific regional dialect. The paper shows signs of significant wear, including tears, creases, and discoloration, particularly along the edges and in the center. The overall appearance is that of an ancient manuscript fragment.

Vertical text on the left edge of the fragment, possibly a marginal note or a reference number.