

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript, enclosed in a rectangular border. The text is arranged in approximately 10 lines. The script is dense and characteristic of a Gothic or similar medieval hand. The parchment is aged and shows some staining and wear.

Vertical text on the right edge of the parchment, possibly a marginal note or a page number, written in a similar cursive script.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Gothic or similar, arranged in approximately 10 lines within a red rectangular border. The text is dense and appears to be a liturgical or legal document. The script is dark brown or black ink on aged, yellowish-brown parchment. The lines are roughly horizontal and fill most of the page's width. The text is difficult to decipher due to the cursive nature of the script and the fading of the parchment.

Vertical text written along the right edge of the parchment, outside the main red border. It consists of several lines of text, likely serving as a marginal note or a reference. The script is similar to the main text but more compact and less legible.

Small handwritten mark or signature located at the bottom center of the page, below the main text block. It appears to be a stylized initial or a short phrase.
