

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of shorthand or a specific dialect, written on aged, yellowed paper. The text is arranged in approximately six horizontal lines, with some characters appearing to be stylized or abbreviated. The script is dense and difficult to decipher without specialized knowledge of the language or system used.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a medieval manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately six lines across the length of the strip. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the age of the parchment. The parchment is heavily stained and discolored, particularly towards the edges, which are frayed and torn. The overall appearance is that of an ancient, weathered document fragment.