Fragment of a parchment scroll with handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or similar. The text is arranged in approximately 10 lines across the length of the strip. The parchment is heavily aged, showing significant discoloration and wear, particularly at the edges. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to the cursive nature and the condition of the document. The text appears to be a continuous passage, possibly a liturgical or legal document, given the formal appearance of the script and the use of some recognizable words like "Et" and "In".

Handwritten text in a medieval script on a fragment of parchment. The text is arranged in approximately seven lines, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect than the main body of text. The parchment is aged and shows signs of wear, including tears and discoloration.
