Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Gothic or Carolingian minuscule, enclosed in a rectangular border. The text is arranged in five lines and appears to be a liturgical or legal document. The script is dark brown or black ink on aged, yellowish-brown parchment. The parchment shows signs of wear, including creases and discoloration. The text is written in a dense, compact style with some decorative flourishes. The first line begins with a large initial letter, possibly 'I' or 'H'. The second line contains a similar large initial. The third line has a smaller initial. The fourth line starts with a large initial. The fifth line ends with a decorative flourish.
