Handwritten text in a medieval script, possibly Gothic or Carolingian minuscule, written on aged parchment. The text is organized into several lines, with some words or phrases highlighted in red ink. The parchment shows signs of wear, including a small tear near the top center and some staining.

The text is written in a dense, cursive style. A prominent feature is a large, ornate initial letter, possibly a 'C' or 'K', written in red ink, which begins a section of text. The rest of the text is written in black ink. The lines of text are roughly aligned, but the parchment's texture and the ink's bleed-through from the reverse side create a complex visual pattern.

[Faint, mostly illegible text in a medieval script, possibly Gothic or Carolingian minuscule, written on aged parchment. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words or initials highlighted in red ink. The parchment shows significant wear, including tears and discoloration.]

Handwritten text in red ink, likely a title or initial, possibly reading "Hilarius" or similar.

Large, prominent red initials or words, possibly "Hilarius" or "Hilarius" written in a stylized, decorative font.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or Carolingian minuscule. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words in red ink (rubrication). The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to the age and staining of the parchment. The text appears to be a liturgical or legal document, possibly a fragment of a larger manuscript.

Small handwritten text or signature on the right edge of the parchment strip.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Coptic, on a fragment of aged parchment. The text is arranged in approximately seven horizontal lines. The script is dense and characteristic of early medieval manuscripts. A prominent feature is a large, decorative initial letter at the beginning of the second line, which is written in a larger, more ornate hand than the rest of the text. The parchment is heavily aged, showing significant discoloration, staining, and some physical damage, particularly along the edges and in the center. The overall appearance is that of a well-preserved but clearly antique document.

Vertical text on the right edge of the parchment fragment, possibly a marginal note or a reference number.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Armenian, on a piece of aged, yellowed parchment. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words highlighted in red ink. The script is dense and characteristic of medieval manuscripts. The parchment shows signs of wear, including creases and discoloration.

Vertical text on the right edge of the parchment, possibly a marginal note or a page number, written in the same script.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or similar, on aged parchment. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words in red ink (rubrics). The script is dense and characteristic of the late Middle Ages. The parchment is heavily stained and shows signs of significant wear and tear, particularly along the edges and in the center.

Vertical text on the right edge of the parchment, possibly a marginal note or a page number, written in a similar medieval script.
