Dawkins. Agatha Mrs.

12.2.'47.

E.C. with D.

Seen on way out to road from Mrs Grandison's house, gossiping with Mr Bailey (Christian name?). Stopped to talk with them on pretext of asking way to Mrs Frater's house.

Mrs D. old crone, head in red-kerchief, said she was hard of hearing but seemed to miss nothing of any conversation with Mr B. in normal tone of voice. Mr B. smoking pipe, dignified (younger, and co-operative. Walked with us to corner and pointed direction to F's house then went on towards Albert Town.

Mrs D. I noted later in a house over-looking main road very interested in us -- and anyone else who passed.
