

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or introductory passage, written in a cursive script.

Vertical handwritten text on the left margin, likely serving as a commentary or index.

Main body of handwritten text, organized into several lines with red ink used for initials and decorative elements. The script is dense and characteristic of a medieval manuscript.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a concluding passage or a signature.

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or introductory line, written in a cursive script.

Vertical handwritten text on the left margin, likely serving as a commentary or index.

Main body of handwritten text, organized into several lines with red ink used for initials and decorative elements. The script is dense and characteristic of a medieval manuscript.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a concluding line or a signature.

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or introductory section, written in a cursive script.

65

100

100

Main body of handwritten text, organized into several lines within a rectangular border. The text is written in a cursive script with some red ink used for initials or headings.

Handwritten text at the bottom left of the page, possibly a signature or a concluding note.

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or introductory section, written in a cursive script.

Vertical handwritten text on the left margin, likely serving as a commentary or index.

Main body of handwritten text, organized into several lines within a rectangular frame. The text is written in a cursive script with some red ink used for initials or headings.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or a concluding note.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely a form of Pictish or Gaelic, arranged in three lines. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher. The text appears to be a list or a set of instructions, possibly related to land or property, given the use of terms like 'land' and 'house' in some of the words.

Vertical text on the right side of the page, possibly a date or a reference number, written in a similar script.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or similar, arranged in three lines. The text is written on aged, textured parchment. The script is dense and characteristic of the late Middle Ages. The first line begins with a large initial 'W'. The second line starts with a large 'L'. The third line starts with a large 'A'. The text appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to a manuscript's contents or a specific subject.

Vertical handwritten text on the right edge of the parchment, possibly a marginal note or a reference to another part of the manuscript.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or similar, on aged, textured paper. The text is arranged in three lines, with some words appearing to be in a different script or dialect than the main text. The first line contains several words, including what appears to be a large initial 'M'. The second and third lines continue the text, with some words appearing to be in a different script or dialect. The text is written in black ink on a yellowish-brown, textured paper.

Vertical handwritten text on the right edge of the page, possibly a marginal note or a reference to another page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Gothic or similar medieval script, written on aged, textured paper. The text is arranged in three lines. The first line begins with a large initial 'W' and contains several words. The second line continues the text with similar word structures. The third line also continues the text, ending with a large flourish. The ink is dark, and the paper shows signs of age and wear.

Vertical handwritten text on the right edge of the page, possibly a marginal note or a reference to another page.