

Fragment of an ancient manuscript on brown parchment, featuring a central line of text in a dark script, possibly Coptic or Greek, enclosed within a faint red border. The text is arranged in several lines, with a prominent central line that appears to be a title or a key phrase. The script is highly stylized and difficult to decipher, but the overall layout suggests a formal or liturgical text.

Fragment of a medieval manuscript strip with a red double-line border. The text is written in a medieval script. The most legible line in the center reads: || Sanctus Dominus Deus Sabaoth ||. Other lines are mostly illegible due to fading and the texture of the parchment.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely a manuscript fragment. The text is arranged in several lines, with a prominent central line that reads "Karl der Große" (Charlemagne). The script is a dense, black, Gothic-style hand. The paper is framed by a double-line red border.

