Miss Ellen Robinson lives in a small thatched house with her sister. The thatched house nearby which was built by her father is so dilapidated - one cant live in it. Her 3 children are in Kingston - "they are poor - they cant help me." The small house in which she lives belongs to her sister, who came some years ago from Panama where she has 3 daughters. She was sorry she came back, but now cant get the papers to return to Panama. Miss Robinson did not show the house in which she lives. Outside it looks quite good, though very small and made of grass. They live ~~only~~ there ~~only~~ with her sister alone. "There is only one room, and it is very inconvenient in case I am ill and somebody wants to come and see me." She has 1 acre of land to the house. "Only a few banans" are there. She says she cant hire people to work the land. She was in rags, but her "sister from Panama" was much better dressed. The daughters in Panama help their mother - Mrs. White - "little" but they are not particularly eager to have her back.
