

A long, narrow, rectangular fragment of aged, yellowish-brown parchment with irregular, torn edges. The parchment is decorated with a double-line red border. Inside this border, there are several lines of handwritten text in a dark ink, likely a medieval script. The text is arranged in approximately six horizontal lines. The script is dense and somewhat difficult to decipher due to the age and the style. There are some larger, more prominent characters or initials, possibly in red or a darker ink, interspersed within the lines. The overall appearance is that of a fragment from an ancient manuscript or a record.

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or similar, on a long, narrow, aged parchment strip. The text is arranged in approximately seven lines, written in dark ink. The parchment is heavily stained and discolored, particularly towards the edges, and shows signs of wear and tear, including a small hole near the bottom center. The script is dense and characteristic of the late Middle Ages.
